PRESENTING

THE 1941 ELIZABETHAN

1941 Foreword

Here is The Nineteen Forty-one Yearbook. Whether you feel that it be history or biography, or merely an idle tale, it is yours nevertheless. If you enjoy it, the staff will feel that they have not written in vain.

Dedication

For the many benefits which we have enjoyed throughout our public school careers, our heartfelt appreciation goes to every member of the Board of Education to whom we, The Class of 1941, gratefully dedicate this number of the Yearbook.

In Memoriam

In the midst of the joy and high hopes of the 1940 Commencement activities, a dark shadow fell in the sudden death of Mr. John W. Wolgemuth, one of the members of the School Board.

Notwithstanding the fact that he played an important part in many business relations, Mr. Wolgemuth found time for many civic duties to which he gave a full measure of constructive service. In the many years he had been a school director, he had greatly become interested in the cause of education. Through his devotion to that cause, he won not only the confidence of his official associates, but also the good will and respect of his fellow citizens.

The Yearbook Staff considers it a privilege to pay tribute to a man who exemplified so high an order of stewardship and to join with the community who laments his untimely death. They feel that his life will continue an outstanding inspiration to all who knew him.

CLASS MOTTO

Not Conquered—Still Conquering

CLASS POEM

We've always looked upon the day
That we'd be graduating,
As a happy moment of our lives
For which we've all been waiting.

But as the time is drawing near,
Our joy is mixed with tears;
We realize soon we'll lose our friends
We've gathered through the years.

Yes, we'll have our class reunions
Where most of us shall meet again;
We'll talk over our school days
And discuss our fellow-men.

But that'll not be like attending class,
A task we thought we hated,
You just don't appreciate school
Until you have graduated.

—Dorothy M. Ebersole

HIGH SCHOOL SONG

Faithful and true-hearted
Let us boost for our old High
We'll revere her and defend her,
May her colors proudly fly.
We will stand for her united
When her team is on the field
Her colors streaming
Her faces beaming
So here's a cheer for her
Whom we all love so well.

Honor she has taken
On the track and with the ball.
May she always rank the highest;
May her colors never fall.
We will stand for her united
When her team is on the field.
Her boys the fleetest,
Her girls the sweetest,
So here's a cheer for her
Whom we all love so well.

CHORUS:

Joyous and ever loyal
Let us boost for our old High
Let every heart sing
Let every voice ring,
There's no time to grieve or sigh.
As ever onward, our course pursuing,
May defeat ne'er our ardor cool,
But, united, we will boost for her
Our old High School.

CLASS

I hesitated when asked to prepare this picture of the Class of 1941, for although I am considered somewhat of an artist with the brush, I felt my lack of skill in wielding the pen. Besides, the Class of 1941 is a very lively subject for even a master to attempt to sketch. They are never any of them twice alike, nor apt to be found twice in the same place or position. Even a snapshot could never catch them in anything better than a blur. Besides, I am only one person, of decidedly individual opinions, and could only look at my classmates through my own eyes. I cannot see them as they see themselves, nor even as you might see them if you should stand for a time in my position, and be able to look at them from my point of view.

But, as it seems my fate to be expected to hold the mirror up before these one hundred and three boys and girls who have been my classmates for so long and be to them that power that would, as Burns says,

"The gifte gie us

To see oursel's as ithers see us,"

I can paint them in such words as appear to me to express them as I see them. This then, dear friends, is the Class of 1941, as I see it today. (I am sure you will pardon the exact measurements, as I am not only a miserable artist, and an extremely poor mathematician as well; but, in spite of these tremendous obstacles, I managed to get as accurate an account as possible.)

The Class of 1941 is made up of one hundred three members—fifty-one girls and fifty-two boys. We range in age from fifteen to nineteen years.

We range in height from Dottie Brought's four feet ten and a half inches—high heels, long hat feather and all—to Bill Gephart's six foot six, with or without his silk stockings. We range in weight from Dottie's ninety-five pounds (feather, brain and all) to Bob Greiner's two hundred and fifteen.

Taken altogether as the one in body that we are supposed to be in spirit, we make up an individual of sufficient age to know a great deal, if he's ever going to begin to learn, for he would be one thousand six hundred and seventy-one years old—surely an age of wisdom, and power, and dignity, verging upon veneration. Our height is six thousand, three hundred and three inches, which certainly raises us far enough up in the world to allow us to tower above our enemies, and look down upon the inferior undergraduates. You can see, too, what a heavy proposition we are by the fact that taken altogether, and even giving due consideration to Dottie's dainty figure, we tip the scales at exactly twelve thousand six hundred and seventy-one pounds. Someone has hinted that this weight is the same, either with or without Dottie, but we think this is hardly a fair accusation, and we do not expect any of you to give it any consideration. Our hand is certainly large enough to get a good firm grasp upon the affairs of the world, as well as upon our own individual concerns, for we wear a size four hundred and thirty glove. Our head is of sufficient capacity to hold even the vast amount of knowledge we have been cramming into it for the past four years, for we require a hat that measures one thousand three hundred and ninety inches. Some say this may be due to the style of hair worn by some of the girls, but we pass this over in the silence we feel that it deserves. And if we do not make the success in life that we desire and expect, it will surely not be because we cannot gain a foothold upon the world's battleground, by way of our stupendous understanding, for we wear a size seven hundred and thirty shoe.

This is the Class of 1941 in her big moments. Then even her class picture has to be taken on the instalment plan. But we have not at all times such a mighty sense of our vastness. Sometimes our pride sinks to a mere average capacity, and Mr. Bishop assures us that we have a splendid capacity for averages. We have been investigating this line too, but will not bore you with a recital of the resultant statistics.

These same statistics, in an altogether diverse form, show that almost half our number of girls will join the nursing squad and subsequently the Army and the Red Cross. No wonder the boys think it is a case of coming events casting their shadows before that makes so many cling to those tiny hats. We are all Americans, for though we may be descended from many different nationalities, we are all united under the red, white, and blue of the Star Spangled Banner and the colors of our class.

We are accomplished in all things. We have often proved to you how well we can sing, act, recite, and perform in many entertaining ways before the public. We have proved our prowess in athletics, and won honors for our class and school. We all like to do steady work and research under the tutorship of some person older than ourselves. We will appreciate it if you will kindly refrain from unkind insinuations along this line. Indeed, what we do not know has seemed to us to be scarcely worth the learning. What we do know has seemed to our teachers to be very much worth the learning. That may be one of the reasons why we know it, but we have nothing further to add along this line.

We have within our ranks, poets, artists, actresses, preachers, professional football players, philosophers, professors, judges, physicians, authors, musicians, warriors, and one United States president, I hope. Do not ask me to specify the which or the who. Ask me thirty years from now, and perhaps I may be better able to say, for, of course, they are still in a state of partial development, and while I can tell you what they are now, "it doth not yet appear what they shall be."

This, friends, is a subdued picture of the Class of 1941, crudely sketched from my present perspective. I did not use the brilliant colors of my imagination, lest I should lay myself open to the charge of undue self appreciation or exaggeration. Far be it from our wish to run any such risk as that! Sufficient it is to say that while the career of the class has from the very beginning been glowing with color and brightness, it is only a glimpse of the great things it foreshadows, when Life, as the master artist, mixes the shades that have been decreed by the forces of destiny for the painting of the permanent and eternal canvas that shall last throughout the ages as the perfect and indestructible Class Picture of 1941.

DECLASS

We, the Class of 1941, in a hundred and three individual and distinct parts, being about to pass out of this sphere of education, in full possession of a crammed mind, well-trained memory, and almost superhuman understanding, do make and publish this, our last will and testament, hereby revoking and making void all former wills or promises by us at any time heretofore made, or mayhap, carelessly spoken, one to another, as the thoughtless wish of an idle hour.

And first, we direct that our funeral services shall be conducted by our friends and well-wishers, our principal and his all-wise and ever-competent faculty, who have been our guardians for so long, only asking as the last injunction of the dying, that the funeral be carried on with all the dignity and pomp that our worth, our merit, our attainments, and our positions as Seniors of "grave and reverend mein" must certainly have deserved.

As to such estate as it has pleased the Fates and our own strong hands and brains to win for us, we do dispose of the same as follows:

- Item: Nancy Becker and Eddis Barnhart leave their sophistication to Helen Alexander and Jane Klein
- Item: Robert Gainer and Guy Loser leave their perfect attendance to Sylvester Ulrich
- Item: Betty Gainer and Earl Spickler leave their little green light to Ruth Parrett and John Lebo
- Item: Robert Loser and Robert Becker leave their hearts to the Junior Class.
- Item: We leave fond memories of Leroy Snyder to Mr. Bishop.
- Item: We leave Mrs. Herr a "grande et plus intelligente" (larger and more intelligent) French Class.
- Item: The Senior Girls leave their dignity to the Sophomore girls.
- Item: Fay Hasley leaves her quiet, but humorous laugh to Mary Bischel
- Item: Jean Lokey leaves her pretty red hair to Betty Steiner.
- Item: Henry Gingrich leaves his churchmanship to Mr. Seiders.
- Item: Dorothy Becker leaves her dancing ability to Dorothy Yurkovic.
- Item: We leave Miss Brewer a more quiet and industrious Home Economics Class
- Item: Alfred Reingold leaves his sentiment to George Nedigh
- Item: To Miss Hess, we leave two new assistants
- Item: June Gainer leaves her broken heart to Marcella Fink
- Item: We leave the hard worn books in the Library to the Juniors.
- Item: Paul Boyer leaves his ability and ambition for doing school work to Ray Shaak.
- Item: The Senior Basketball players leave their skill to Clyde Barnhart.
- Item: The 1941 Yearbook Staff leaves their best wishes to the 1942 Yearbook Staff
- Item: Frank Shissler leaves his bicycle to Miss Dulebohn.
- Item: Joe Garber leaves his bus stories to Coach Wenger

Item: The Seniors leave all their P. D. notes to the Junior Class.
(We figure that's very generous of us, but just wait and you will see)

Item: We wish Best of Luck to the Sophomores.

Last comes the one thing hard for us to part with. To our successors we must leave our places in the hearts and thoughts of our Principal and teachers. They will love them, unworthy as we feel they are, even as they have loved us; they will show them all the same tender kindness and attention that they have bestowed upon us; they will feel the same interest in their attempts and successes; the same sorrow when they fail. We trust that the Class of 1942 will appreciate all this as deeply as we have done, that it may be their most precious possession, as it has been ours, and the one we are most loath to hand over to them

All the rest and residue of our property, whatsoever and where-soever, of what nature, kind and quality soever it may be, and not herein before disposed of (after paying our debts and funeral expenses), we give and bequeath to our Principal, for his use and benefit absolutely, and to be disposed of for the good of the coming classes as he may see fit

And we do hereby constitute and appoint the said Principal sole executor of this our last will and testament

In witness whereof, we, the Class of 1941, the testators, have to this our will, written on one sheet of parchment, set our hands and seal this twentieth day of June, Anno Domini, one thousand nine hundred and forty-one.

With the platform in mind—to create, maintain, and extend throughout the school and community high standards of Christian character—these two organizations began the year's work with a drive for larger memberships and a greater determination to promote clean living, clean speech, clean athletics, and clean scholarship. Under the guidance of each club, a course in "Bible Study" was given and certificates awarded. The outstanding social events were the annual Mother-Daughter Banquet, and the Father-Son Banquet.

Young April a sequel to Growing Pains, was given by the class in their Senior year. The story of the play largely centers around the turbulent lives of Terry McIntyre, Agnes McClurg and George McIntyre, Eugene Hess in contact with those of their parents (Margaret Wormley and Edwin Boll). At first Terry is engaged to Bert Parsons (Alfred Reingold) but finding him divided in his affections she turned for sympathy to Stewart Miller (Lester Betz) and his dotting mother (Patricia Hess). Meanwhile George's dream girl, Diana Fay Hailey, deserts him proving herself quite human after all. Finally Terry finds out the true character of the Millers and with the aid of Mildred (Dorothy Broucht) and Jane (Thelma Cox) becomes engaged to Brian (Walter Treichler). Lula Eddis (Barthart) Mrs. McIntyre's colored maid and Elsie (Margaret Alwine) were the comics in the play. Other important parts were played by Betty Heagy, Joseph Garber, and Robert Heagy. Mrs. Herr, with the assistance of an able staff, directed the performance.

PLAY

Lena Rivers a dramatization of Mary J. Holmes popular novel, was presented by the class in their Junior year. The story of the play deals with the plight of young Lena Rivers (Dorothy Brought) and Granny Nichols (Nancy Becker) who are compelled to seek refuge with Granny's son John (Edwin Boll). John has changed the family name of Nichols to Livingston because of the social aspirations of his dominating wife Mailla (Fay Hailey). Arriving in Kentucky Lena and her grandmother are subject to the treatment that is usually handed out to poor relations Mrs. Livingston and her daughter Caroline (Betty Heagy) tremble with fear at the thought of their wealthy friends reactions to the awkward country girl and Granny Nichols. But there is one of Caroline's friends (Robert Reese) who sees Lena's potential worth. It is Darward Belmont whom Mrs. Livingston plans to marry to Caroline. Darward falls in love with Lena much to the astonishment of Caroline and her mother who do everything they can to place Lena in a false position. The younger Livingston daughter, Anna (Lorraine Blisser) and her brother John Junior (Alfred Reinhold) become Lena's friends and champion her cause and Lena in turn, aids Anna and helps along her romance with Malcolm Everett (Lester Betz), a tutor in the Livingston household. In the last act when it looks as though Lena were going to lose Darward, late steps in through the Gramams (Margaret Wormley and Joseph Garber) and saves the day. The play finally ends with the two black faces Eddis Barnhart and Eugene Hess announcing their intentions. Mr. Seiders of the English Department directed the play.

This year the High School Mixed Chorus broke with the usual custom of presenting an operetta by giving a musical concert. The vocal portion of the program was under the direction of Miss Baker and the instrumental under Mr. Kulas. The low wing senior class members participated with Margaret Warley at the piano.
